179th Public Affairs named top in state

The 179th Public Affairs Office was named Best Public Affairs Program for 2001 during the annual Ohio Air National Guard Tappan Awards Banquet on April 4, 2002.

The program was selected as the best from all the flying units and ground units in Ohio with public affairs and community relations programs. This is the second time the 179th has won the award since its inception in 1998.

The award is judged on community relations activities, command information functions, internal and external communication programs.

The office was also recently honored when it won third place in the Air National Guard Media Contest for the Buckeye Airlifter.

Nominations being accepted for 2002 Public Affairs Award

The Public Affairs Office is accepting nominations for individuals for the 2002 Public Affairs Award. This award is presented at the annual 179th Awards Banquet dinner held in the fall. Nominees should possess outstanding community service outside of the National Guard. For more details contact the Public Affairs Office. Nominations are due by the end of July.
